Origin Spotlight - Mars (Martian Soil)

This is absolutely, without question the rarest coffee*** both on and off earth! Nasa scientists have analyzed the soil content of Mars with the Mars Rover and duplicated the soil in their laboratory. Then one bright scientist decided to plant coffee to see if it could grow. The results were amazing, with an accelerated growth rate and a very small harvest of Martian coffee beans. It is a blend of two distinct styles, one dark and one light representing the dark and light hemispheres of the red planet with the darker roast being the more prominent of the two. It will be the official coffee for the astronauts on their first mission to Mars later this century. As always, we strive to bring you quality coffee that no one else has and we do this each and every month. We are truly amazing and a legend in our own minds. And so the story of our coffee's continue...
