Origin Spotlight - Organic, Fair Trade Peru San Ignacio

Some of the best coffees in the world are located in one of the most remote places on earth in the jungles of northern Peru. This is one amazing coffee. If you ever wanted to try Hawaiian Kona but found the price prohibitive, then please try this coffee. Lightly roasted, it is incredibly smooth with citrus, particularly lemon notes to it. It is bright and clean tasting to the pallet with a wonderful crispness at the finish. Don't be afraid to drink this coffee black! It's like a breath of fresh mountain air.

San Ignacio is located in northern Peru near the border of Ecuador. The farms are located up high on the steep sides of the jungled mountains. This region has everything going for it, high altitude and cool breezy weather with plenty of rain and fertile soil. It's perfect for growing coffee.
